WRITING Task 2

The importance of being polite

A few days ago I faced the worst situation to have even happened to me.

One of my classmates behaved ~~himself~~ very badly and disrespectfully with our language teacher. The girl was eager to express her opinion on our exams marking, so she even started shouting. So, the teacher my started defending. Their threatening dialog could stop soonly, but ~~soon~~ classmate was so desperate that she started a complete argument. When it reached its climax, our teacher was enough and told us to go away and try to speak with that girl ourselves.

After that lesson I felt so bad for our teacher. I felt like I was ready to blow up from anger and burst into tears at the same time. Even I was just a spectator of that situation, I felt that I had had to stop the classmate then or do everything possible to make her behave now. That's why a group of our classmates decided to speak to that girl, but she ran away before we saw her. However, that didn't stop us from at least apologizing from her name and the name of ~~the~~ the whole our class. →

We've met our teacher later that day, but she said that we weren't guilty and she still wants the girl to apologise.

That is why one should always remember to be polite with other people not to make them suffer.
