I'd like to tell a story about an unlucky day of an old fisherman. In the morning he decided that he wanted to catch the biggest fish. He got up early and started fishing at sunrise. He sat on a cliff by the sea in his old straw hat. Time went on, but the fisherman couldn't catch any fish. His bucket was still empty. At noon the fisherman started to feel tired. He wasn't hoping to catch the biggest fish anymore, an average one would be enough. As he sat by the sea, his ambitions became smaller and smaller. When the sun started to set, the man became desperate. He wanted to catch even the smallest fish, but had no luck. As the sun hid at the horizon, the man got up to go home. He was so frustrated that he even forgot his bucket. The man was walking home with a frown on his face. He was very annoyed, that because of his bad luck he would have to eat fried eggs instead of a delicious fish today.
