Open the brackets in the following story.

I'll never forget my visit to the Japanese city of Hamamatsu. Last year I 46.....(decide) to go at the beginning of May, when the local people have their kite festival. Every year in May, the local people 47.....(fly) colourful kites to bring their children good health and courage. On the way there I read a little about the history of the Kite Festival. Apparently, it all 48.....(start) about 430 years ago, when the lord of the region 49.....(send) a huge kite into the sky with his child's name on it.

When I 50.....(arrive) there, a few days before the beginning of the festival, I was amazed at the preparations involved. Some people 51.....(make) enormous kites, while others 52.....(decorate) brightly-colored floats. Everywhere I went I 53.....(can) smell cakes and sweets cooking. I couldn't wait to try them. I noticed that every team 54.....(have) different costumes. They wore scarves around their heads and gloves to protect their hands from the kite strings. The atmosphere was fantastic, and all around me people kept waving flags, banging drums, playing trumpets and blowing whistles. On the last day of the festival, I 55.....(enjoy) walking around the city center and watching the floats.

THE SINGING HIPPO

Once upon a time, a hippopotamus lived in a river next to a big and solitary tree.

One day, a bird came and nested in the tree. The songs and the flight of the bird caused such envy in the hippo that he couldn't think of anything else. Every day he would lament the fact that he had been born a hippo. This, despite the many times the bird told the hippo he was so lucky to be so big and such a good swimmer.

Finally, the hippo made his mind up that he would come out of the river, climb the tree, go out to perch on a branch, and start singing. However, when he tried to climb the tree it was all too clear that the hippo didn't have wings, nor claws to climb with, and neither could he hop. Realising that he would never manage it, he angrily rammed his whole weight against the tree until it came crashing to the ground. Then, triumphantly, he stepped onto the leaves of the fallen tree, and began singing.

Unfortunately, hippos can't sing either. All that came from his mouth were horrible noises, and when the other animals heard this they all gathered round.....
